Sorry for the tardiness with this month's issue, but things have been crazy at DFP!

First, our Marketing Manager, Corin Grey, is now the proud father of a beautiful baby girl and against all better judgement, he's been allowed to spend some time with his new and improved family.

Next, we are just wrapping up the TCHFM post-show madness. Thanks to everyone who stopped by the booth or who called about our incredible show specials for having helped make this another banner event. Given the popularity of leather furniture, the interest in the Trade Secret leather care and repair products was spectacular!

Just when you thought you'd seen it all, we are once again embarking on a campaign to launch even more new and relevant products into the mix this year. While you'll have to stay tuned to this newsletter or our website for details, here's a little something to wet your appetite. DFP will be launching a kit that will allow consumers to properly repair damage on finished flooring like nothing currently available on market.

To find out about these products as soon as they're released, send us an email at dfpservice@dfp.ca with New Product Info in the subject line.
